

POTENTIAL INDUSTRY: Zulkipli Aziz shows a soft-shell crab, which has yet to reach the size that is ripe for harvest, at his breeding farm in Kampung Penat, Oya in Mukah. The 44-year-old is among those who could benefit from a proposed programme by the Fisheries Department of Sarawak, in which it aims to revive the crab-farming industry in the state. The programme is also planned to include courses on aquaculture, as well as rearing techniques and proper maintenance in crab-farming.
— Bernama photo